

IN MARCH 2003

the United States led a violent and destructive military campaign against Iraq to occupy it and put into place changes that would change the social fabric of the country. Launched under the guise of peace and democracy, the occupation of Iraq has brought death, instability, and destruction to a people already beleaguered by dictatorship, war, and sanctions.

People around the world organized in their respective communities and took to the streets to protest against the War on Iraq, which millions saw as a racist and greed driven attack on a civilian population. People were also making connections between the war abroad and the war at home, being waged against working class people, marginalized communities, indigenous peoples, and people of color.

IN MARCH 2003

the United States led a violent and destructive military campaign against Iraq to occupy it and put into place changes that would change the social fabric of the country. Launched under the guise of peace and democracy, the occupation of Iraq has brought death, instability, and destruction to a people already beleaguered by dictatorship, war, and sanctions.

People around the world organized in their respective communities and took to the streets to protest against the War on Iraq, which millions saw as a racist and greed driven attack on a civilian population. People were also making connections between the war abroad and the war at home, being waged against working class people, marginalized communities, indigenous peoples, and people of color.

FROM 2003 UNTIL NOW —

1.2 MILLION

people have been killed in Iraq

8 MILLION

Iraqis have fled the country to form one of the largest refugee populations in the world

To this day, the most destructive forces on the planet are reaping the benefits of the blow dealt against Iraq and supporters of peace and justice worldwide. Corporations have gotten richer, military spending has ballooned, social spending has been slashed, and people's civil liberties have been undermined in the name of security.

TAKE ACTION!

Identify and confront war profiteers on campus or in your city.
Organize teach-ins and educational events about the occupation of Iraq.
Name and shame supporters of the war on Iraq .
Create material that makes connections between the war on Iraq and the war against poor and marginalized communities in your own city.

Download a Dummy's Guide to Iraq, posters, and other material from <http://shakomako.net/10years>

FROM 2003 UNTIL NOW —

1.2 MILLION

people have been killed in Iraq

8 MILLION

Iraqis have fled the country to form one of the largest refugee populations in the world

To this day, the most destructive forces on the planet are reaping the benefits of the blow dealt against Iraq and supporters of peace and justice worldwide. Corporations have gotten richer, military spending has ballooned, social spending has been slashed, and people's civil liberties have been undermined in the name of security.

TAKE ACTION!

Identify and confront war profiteers on campus or in your city.
Organize teach-ins and educational events about the occupation of Iraq.
Name and shame supporters of the war on Iraq .
Create material that makes connections between the war on Iraq and the war against poor and marginalized communities in your own city.

Download a Dummy's Guide to Iraq, posters, and other material from <http://shakomako.net/10years>